MOTOR MOTIONS

William O'Brien a Packard-30 touring car. A car that will probably eclipse in beauty of finish and lines any other of its model ever shipped into the state from the Packard factory, will be a Packard 30 touring car purchased by H. Vance Lane. The car is finished in a combination of French grey and black and is said to be unusually striking. These six cars will average in cost approximately $4,700.

The private automobile show held by the Botterill company closed at that salesroom this week and it is doubtful if a more interesting event of its kind has taken place here this season. The chassis of the Chalmers car attracted hundreds of interested people during the exhibition and the contrivance afforded a splendid opportunity for thoroughly investigating the engine and transmission construction of the Chalmers car.

The Studebaker Company has announced the sale of a number of E-M-F-30's and Flanders-20 cars for immediate delivery and several of the big Studebaker cars have been sold from the sales room at Second South and Second East streets. Several carloads of the three makes are now en route to Salt Lake.

B. M. Anderson has announced the sale of sixteen bicycles the past week, principally Rugby's and Shapleigh's.

Mr. Anderson's establishment is one equipped with an up-to-date motor cycle garage and he has made storing and renting of machines by the month a specialty. He is pushing his lines of Merkel, Emblem and Racycle motors and arrangements have been made for the prompt shipments of all orders.

Business is gradually picking up and out of town territory is rapidly developing, according to Manager Bertram of the Bertram Motor Supply Company, who returned several days ago from an out of town trip.

The annual show held in Denver by the automobile dealers of that city closes tonight, after a most successful week.

"THE GREETERS OF SALT LAKE"

With the adoption of by-laws and a constitution and the transaction of other important business, the Greeters of Salt Lake held their third meeting since the organization of the association, Thursday evening, March 16, at the Grand hotel in Salt Lake.

With every officer and all of the members present, the session resulted in a decision to apply immediately for the charter being held for the local order by the Greeters of America, the national organization. This charter will complete the affiliation of the Utah association with every other state association in the country and members of the local Greeters will benefit just that much more.

The current issue of this journal goes to press too early to contain a detailed account of the meeting of the Greeters held Thursday evening at the Grand, but this will be given in full a week hence. Meanwhile, the work of the association is being pushed vigorously and Secretary Paul has received a number of requests for membership. All clerks and managers of hotels throughout the intermountain country and in Utah particularly, are requested to send all news items of interest to hotelmen to the Greeters' department of this journal before Wednesday of each week.
